Akridge Sells Westfields Development Sites to Elm Street Development and Northwood Ravin

NEW, MIXED-USE DEVELOPMENTS INCLUDE AMPLE COMMUNITY SPACE AND WILL POSITION WESTFIELDS FOR THE FUTURE

(Washington, DC)— Akridge announced the sale of The Preserve at Westfields to Elm Street Development and Northwood Ravin. The sale is the culmination of Akridge's efforts to successfully rezone the site from 1.2 million square feet of office into an active mixed-use development within Westfields. Westfields is located just south of Dulles International Airport off of Route 28 in Fairfax County.

The development includes 155 townhomes, up to 650 multifamily units, and up to 15,000 square feet of retail. The project boasts a number of community spaces, including an amphitheater, pavilion, nature trail, and lake at the heart of the development. This community space will foster a communal, neighborhood atmosphere and can be used to host farmers markets, screen on the green events, and more. The project is also located next to the planned Wegmans retail development.

"Akridge is excited to collaborate with Northwood Ravin and Elm Street Development on these projects," said Matt Klein, president of Akridge. "They are highly respected developers who will carry out our plan to deliver a vibrant, engaging neighborhood to the Westfields community."

Akridge finalized the sale of the townhome component of The Preserve to Elm Street Development in May 2016. Construction is slated to begin in July 2016, with the first townhome scheduled to deliver in the summer of 2017.

"Westfields has always been one of Fairfax County's premier office parks. Elm Street is proud to be part of Westfields' transition into an exciting mixed use community where people work, live, and shop," said James Perry, Vice President and Principal of Elm Street Development.

Akridge finalized the sale of the multi-family and retail component of The Preserve to Northwood Ravin in late June 2016. John Sheridan and Nathan Barth of CBRE's Multifamily Investment Property team represented Akridge in the transaction.

"With the surrounding employment base, pristine natural setting, and the future Wegmans nearby, Preserve at Westfields is the ideal first step into the DC region for Northwood Ravin. We're excited to carry forward the vision of creating a more sustainable live, work, play environment in Westfields," added David Ravin, President and CEO of Northwood Ravin. Northwood Ravin will design a unique signature apartment experience specifically for the Westfields submarket. In addition to the community features such as the amphitheater and nature trail, the multifamily project will include contemporary floor plans with luxury finishes and amenities such as a resort-style spa, a health club featuring the latest equipment for a range of work outs from Yoga to Crossfit, resident co-working space, a pet run and spa, and retail shops. Construction on the first phase of the multifamily development is expected to start late summer 2017 with delivery of the first units and retail in late 2018.
